Looking at Our White Past — and to Our White Future

Those receiving this issue of the BULLETIN — our 70th in as many months — may have noticed the commemorative postage stamp on the envelope. It marks the 400th anniversary of the arrival of the Pilgrims from England on the Mayflower in Plymouth Harbor, Massachusetts, on 19 November, 1620. It is rare these days that we European-Americans get recognized by anything issued by the US Postal Service, but this one slipped through. It was not without controversy, however, as non-White activists were demanding that the stamp should somehow also commemorate the contributions of the Wampanoag Indian tribe to the colony's establishment, since the Pilgrims had "stolen" their land. Those demands failed — unlike recent demands to change Christopher Columbus Day to "Indigenous Americans Day."

Some time in the future when we live under a National Alliance government, we won't be bothered by non-White demands. We will honor our race's heroes and ancestors as we please, and we will have postage stamps like the one our Media Director designed to honor William Pierce, shown on this page.

Cosmotheist Books

Nelson Rosit, a White nationalist writer and former staffer at the National Archives and Records Administration, recently sent us a large box of archival materials he preserved from his work at our National Office in West Virginia many years ago. These materials are intended for the planned William Luther Pierce Memorial Library and Research Center. His contribution is much appreciated.

New titles added to our online bookstore this month include a limited number of Commander George Lincoln Rockwell's autobiographical first book, This Time the World, 1961 (both are new editions, one is hardback, the other paperback); Angela Stent's 2019 penetrating analysis of Russia and its enigmatic leader, illustrated hardback first edition, Putin's World: Russia Against the West and With the Rest; Bradley Birzer's 2018 hardback edition of In Defense of Andrew Jackson, repudiates this great American's critics; Origins of Creativity by America's foremost scientist Edward O. Wilson, explores human creativity by studying where science and the humanities meet, a 2017 hardback; Memoirs: Ten Years and Twenty Days by Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, who succeeded Adolf Hitler as Germany's Head of State for twenty days in 1945, then served ten years in prison after being convicted at Nuremberg for the specious crime of "participating in a war of aggression," over 500 pages, translated by R.H. Stevens; Education and Ethnicity: The US Experiment in School Integration by Ralph Scott documents the abysmal failure of the "experiment"; The Bormann Brotherhood by William Stevenson, written in 1973 about Hitler's secretary, this is the 2019 edition; Valley Forge, by Bob Drury and Tom Clavin, 2018, illustrated, gives a powerful, readable portrait of General Washington during the pivotal period of America's struggle for independence; set in Colorado on a ranch in 1906, renowned children's author Ralph Moody's first in a series of beloved "boy coming of age" books, Little Britches: Father and I Were Ranchers. This brings to nearly 240 books and CDs available now at cosmotheistchurch.org.

America's Problem: Race, Not Guns

Enclosed with this issue of the BULLETIN is a copy of our most excellent tri-fold Why They Want to Disarm You, written by Dr. William Pierce and updated twice by our National Vanguard staff. (Soon we hope to issue a third edition, adding a reference to gun-grabbing Negro Senator Kamala Harris and other new information.) That aside, US politics are still dominated by globalists, and the issue of "gun control" is hotter than ever with Negroes and Antifa rioting, looting, and burning parts of American cities.

It is reported that one in five Democrats have purchased firearms in the past six months or so. That is an interesting trend, if true. The armed conflict that looks to be more and more imminent, will not be a civil war between Democrats and Republicans, but will likely be racial — healthy Whites vs. a coalition of every other "protected class" and so-called "minority." In the midst of such chaos, our Alliance offers hope, and more and more Whites will realize this, if we do our job of promoting the Alliance as we should. More and more Whites will wish to separate from other races as the United States balkanizes along racial lines. This flier will be a wake-up call for many White Americans who haven't put together the big picture just yet. As our Media Director said on a recent American Dissident Voices broadcast about an earlier flier, and these words apply to all our fliers and outreach materials:

> If you see Trump posters — those people need a copy. If you see Confederate flags or "Don't Tread on Me" flags, those people need a copy. If you see Betsy Ross flags, those people need a copy. If you see "Blue lives matter" signs — those people need a copy. If you see any indication of opposition to mandatory vaccines or other forms of modern-day tyranny — those people need a copy.

Legal Update

On the 14th, the Appellate Court of Illinois affirmed the lower Piatt County Circuit Court's ruling against the National Alliance, denying our motion to overturn the judgment that time-barred the transfer of our counterclaim in John McLaughlin v. National Alliance to Illinois from Virginia. Normally that would be the end of the matter except that our Alliance has a bulldog of an attorney, Steve Thomas, representing us — and he has filed a Petition for Rehearing of Claimant-Appellant, allowed pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 367. Steve's oral argument before the Supreme Appellate Court on our behalf on 23 September was sound: that one of John McLaughlin's estate's co-administrators, his brother Michael, lied at trial, which our transcript exhibit proved — not to mention that the sole co-executors of the estate are also the sole heirs, which gives them motive to lie to the court. Steve argues that the justices misunderstood his argument and should reconsider at a rehearing. Whatever the final ruling of the Supreme Court in Illinois is, it can't negatively impact the actual counterclaim, National Alliance v. McLaughlin Estate Co-Administrators, in Virginia, but can enhance our chances there.

When a courageous attorney friend read Mr. Thomas's brilliant Petition for Rehearing, he wrote this to him, copied to Chairman Williams:

> Steve, in case anybody ever gives you a hassle over representing Will and NA, just refer to them to Justice Hugo Black's dissent in the case, In Re Anastaplo, 366 US 82 (1961). You're the kind of lawyer we're called to be, and you've set yourself above the rest. If you read the case and the dissent and the commentary, you'll understand what I mean. Linked here: https://en.wikisource.org/wiki/In_re_Anastaplo/Dissent_Black

Chairman Williams read that dissenting opinion by Justice Hugo Black, and reports: "It's a good read, and while digesting it I couldn't help but think of poor Rev. Matt Hale (currently serving a 40-year sentence) and the way he was mistreated, similar to the heroic Mr. Anastapio, by the Illinois justice system. Incidentally, Justice Black served three decades on the US Supreme Court after having been a member of the Ku Klux Klan. He eventually denounced the Klan's beliefs as he championed what Dr. Revilo P. Oliver called 'snivel rights' on America's highest court."

An update on the status of our $850,000 McLaughlin counterclaim, that is being amended to include conspiracy and possibly fraud on the part of our opponents, will appear in next month's BULLETIN.

Activism in Wisconsin's Capital

Local media around Madison, Wisconsin, reported on our activists' fliering earlier this month. Note this story, with the usual shopworn SPLC boilerplate quotes about the Alliance being formerly a "dangerous Neo-nazi organization" "that mostly fell apart" after its founder's novel "apparently inspired a number of domestic terrorism attacks." At least our "Send them back: They can't make White babies" and "Practice Racial Distancing" slogans are quoted by this reporter, and an image of the latter sticker is included, with our contact information not redacted. Very good! Some who read this will visit our Web sites.

Madison365 reported:

Racist propaganda appears in Madison, Middleton by Robert Chappell; October 5, 2020

Dozens of pieces of racist propaganda promoting the white nationalist organization The [sic] National Alliance were distributed around downtown Madison and Middleton Sunday. In response to an appeal for tips on social media, several community members reported rolled-up newspapers adorned with a sticker that said "Send them back" and "they can't make white babies" appearing in driveways and on sidewalks along Maywood, Elmwood and Hubbard Avenues in Middleton Sunday morning. Others reported the same stickers appearing on parking kiosks in downtown Madison. The stickers carried the name National Alliance and the National Alliance's website address.

Middleton resident Margaret DeWine, who initially reported she saw several in driveways while walking her dog at a little after 9:30 am Sunday... "It makes me feel, ugh," DeWine said. "That was the word that came to mind. I think it's distressing and despicable. I believe in diversity and inclusion and hate stuff like this, and I hate that it's in my community."

Madison365 also learned of several similar stickers being placed on parking kiosks in downtown Madison. Some of those had the "send them back" message, while others promoted "racial distancing" as a means to avoid COVID-19.

Both flyers promoted the National Alliance, a largely nascent [sic] group that once had a strong following.

Probably the hack writer meant "dormant" or "quiescent," not "nascent," which actually means "coming to life and showing signs of future potential," the opposite of what he intended.

Founded by Turner Diaries author William Pierce in 1970, it was for years the strongest and most dangerous Neo-nazi organization, according to the Southern Poverty Law Center. Pierce's novel was apparently the inspiration for Timothy McVeigh's 1995 bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City, among other domestic terrorism attacks. After Pierce died in 2002, however, the group mostly fell apart, and now mainly sells books and CDs.... Middleton Police had not received any reports related to the racist propaganda as of midday Sunday. Madison365 also reached out to the SPLC on Sunday afternoon for additional information, but has not received a response.

Unsurprisingly, neither Madison365 nor any other controlled media outlet there "reached out" to us for our perspective.

Correspondence

Dear Cosmotheist Church and book store: I just finished reading Dr. Pierce's The Turner Diaries, a refreshing book compared to what is published today. I am happy to have found your organization, as I have never heard of most of the books in your catalog. It is exciting for me to read about the problems which face us all from your perspective. It is a shame that you have been de-platformed monetarily — but those who thirst for knowledge will always fight to drink. Know that not all of our youth subscribe to the lies we are told, and that we are able to learn thanks to organizations such as yours. Sincerely, — C.C., Tennessee (new member via our book store)

To the National Alliance: I want to say that I am fully committed to the cause of advancing my kinfolk, in all areas of life as we experience it. What I wish to see is us (collectively, as White leaders) not tearing down others; rather, we should be moving ever forward on our own pathway. Improving our intellect, refining our society with beautiful art and poetry and music, seeking new advancements in the sciences... Inasmuch as mankind needs religion as a compass and guide, I do believe that Cosmotheism is a worthy candidate to do so... Truth is truth, no matter the source. When I finally rejected Christianity, and what I believe to be its false god(s), I didn't want to turn to any spiritual path that used the same "language" as it did, casting the same characters in a different play. Having recently found the teachings of Cosmotheism, I remember my first reading of Dr. Pierce's treatise met with vigorous enthusiasm, shaking my head in agreement to every line on the page. It seemed so refreshing to have a clear outline given from a perspective that had no taint of the Christian god(s) in it. I believe in a Higher Intelligence. A greater Force that is All in All. I believe we are part of a universal drama that has been unfolding for billions of years, and will continue billions more. — W.B. via whitebiocemtrism.com

Chairman Williams: On the 10/03/20 broadcast of ADV, Kevin made the comment of how Christian Identity was not only basically false but mocked it as well. One of my two masters degrees is theology. I studied well the filthy "Judeo-Christian" version of the Bible and Christianity and thankfully was later introduced to Christian Identity (CI), which filled in a plethora of gaps which I was told to just "take by faith" since the professors were unable to answer the questions I had. Christian Identity answered those questions logically and thoroughly. KAS's disparity of CI showed not only a blatantly lack of knowledge of the faith but extremely poor judgment in alienating potential members. He showed why we'll never "win" any fight by criticizing people who for the most part support the NA. I have always admired the Alliance, Dr. Pierce and even KAS and was a member as far back as the 80s. This unwise criticism of the CI faith, which I not only align myself with but am an ordained minister, unfortunately shows if not opposing views, at least views that are at odds with mine. It truly breaks my heart at the mockery Strom chose to include in the broadcast... My dues are paid until some time next year. Please accept those as a donation. — F.G., Ohio

Chairman Williams responds: We regret that we are losing you, F.G., We understand your conflict and wish you well. I am surprised that you are so offended by Kevin's Cosmotheist-themed show of 3 October since you have been following the National Alliance for more than 30 years. CI worships the Jew's tribal god, just like all of the Judeo-Christian denominations do. Kevin was absolutely correct when he stated in that ADV, "Staying on the Path," that:

> [T]he idea behind [Christian Identity] is that the "Bible is still true but we Whites are the real Hebrews and modern Jews are imposters."
> Sorry, but we've all studied that belief system and long ago found it factually untrue in every essential particular, with a thousand time bombs and trap doors embedded in it making it unacceptable as a long-term creed for our people.

Kevin speaks for the National Alliance when he says that. The Alliance is the alternative to all the Christian patriot groups who worship Jehovah or Yahweh or whatever name they prefer, and that is what members like I, Kevin, and many others found attractive about the National Alliance and its founder's teachings. Christians are not ineligible for Alliance membership but we won't have them trying to proselytize other members to follow their contradictory, opposed beliefs. The Alliance's ideology is Cosmotheistic, as recognized by our correspondent above as well as by the one below.

To National Vanguard: Excellent presentation. Amazingly, how Mr Strom's ideas resonate with my vision of the matter. It is as if we read from the same invisible book. Yes, we should purge out all attempts to subvert our ideas. Christians have too many channels to express their views. We do not have any obligation to provide them with another one. Christianity is the core of all European problems; not any doubts about it. It is precisely Christian ideology that rotted the healthy tribal spirit of European nations by its universalist poison and vile ideas about united paradise without national and gender barriers. In essence, what is going on now in the USA is the logical fulfilment of biblical, insane ideology. It is disgusting and awful, but in some sense it is for good, because it allows us to see the actual implementation of the original Christian ideas. We should reject

Christian ideology without reservations. But at the same time, we should preserve and uphold the natural European inclination to religiosity. We are religious people. We are more religious than any Christian or Muslim. Our faith is much deeper and wider and is based on natural foundations instead of empty whimsical revelations of some half-imagined weirdos of the distant past. We are actual and factual. Our ideas are in full accord with our genetics. For tens of thousands of years we evolved into something very special. It is the deepest mystery of the world. No one can fully explain this matter, but we have a deeply ingrained understanding of what it is.

This internal subconscious understanding of our special mission and special set of responsibilities constitutes the basis of our natural religion. We are far apart from all other tribes of the world. It doesn't mean that we are enemies, but only that we should be as far from them as possible. We should have a state of our own and we will have it. Nature is on our side and everything else is of no importance. All those seemingly mighty enemies with all their billions in money, their police, and their militaries will disappear when the time comes. The ultimate winners will be those who have the highest spiritual stature. The true Natural aristocracy of the world will take over what is ours by birthright. — Wolf Stoner, via a comment at nationalvanguard.org

Using Social Media

Dear Chairman Williams: Between the riots, the pandemic, and the upcoming election, the past couple months have been hectic for White Americans. I can think of no better time to reach a new audience of good people who are just coming to see the truth of our dying society and are looking for a suitable alternative to Globohomo. With that in mind and with the permission of the National Office, I started a public outreach channel on the social media platform Telegram. The app works in much the same way as Facebook does. From the home screen a user can view social groups, see content pages he has subscribed to, and send messages directly to other Telegram users. It was created by the same two Russian brothers behind the social media platform VK who so far don't censor the Alliance, and has its operations headquartered in Dubai. Although it claims to be free of censorship (which is why it has drawn a considerable following), it could go the way of Faceberg or Twitter at any time. Until then, we will try to make the most effective use of it in spreading our message. Several members have already joined our channel, and some have joined the discussion group which is linked to it. From that group, which anybody can join, but from which disrupters or anti-Alliance agitators can be booted, we can guide people who are curious about the National Alliance in a more personal, direct way. The channel at the time of this writing has 191 members, the discussion group has been whittled down to 10, and one post has been seen by over 3500 users. The channel can be reached at t.me/TheNationalAlliance — and I encourage any member or supporter savvy with the such media to contact the National Office if they are willing to help with this.

By the way, a guy on our channel forwarded a message from some page called "Goy Talk" saying they received a copyright claim from us and that the Internet Archive removed their reposted Dr. Pierce talks. Looks like all your hard work is paying off — those who would use Dr. Pierce's legacy for their own ends are being stopped. I responded on our page by saying "Dr. Pierce sold his talks on cassette when he was alive and left copyrights of everything to the National Alliance, so more than likely that's what he would have wanted." Best wishes, — D.S., Tennessee

Chairman Williams responds: Thank you, D.S., for your initiative. That is the sort of activism any member with Internet access can participate in, even if "locked down" at home. My favorite form of "social media," if it can be considered so, is our Bitchute channel. It currently has 250 subscribers as this BULLETIN goes to press, quadrupling the number we had two months ago. And there are now 83 videos uploaded, more than three times the number we had then. The word is getting around that folks can enjoy all Pierce all the time by visiting natall.com/bitchute. Members who haven't subscribed yet, please do so now and help spread the word. And, yes, we have means to take down unauthorized copies of our materials put up by anyone who lacks permission and who does not point viewers to our Web sites for further information. We are building an organization with our audio and video and print publications; they are not.

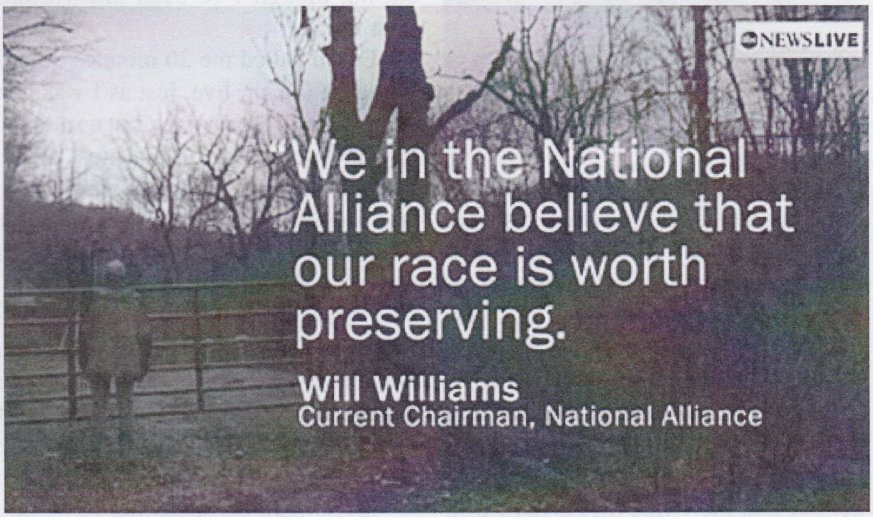
Commentary by Chairman William White Williams

Controlled Media Follow-up



NEWSLIVE
We in the National Alliance believe that our race is worth preserving.
Will Williams
Current Chairman, National Alliance

AN IMAGE from the latest anti-White and anti-Alliance hate screed produced by the dishonest Jews at ABC News.

In the September BULLETIN I mentioned being contacted by the Jewish "Senior Investigative Reporter" for ABC News, Josh Margolin, wanting to interview me for a special show about the resurgence of racial-nationalist movements, including the National Alliance. That BULLETIN was mailed before ABC's show, titled "Homegrown Hate: The War Among Us" was aired on 6 October. Recall that I gave the Jew a written response that I believed he couldn't alter:

> We in the National Alliance believe that our race is worth preserving, To accomplish that we, as racial separatists, simply advocate geographic separation of the races by whatever means it takes. Many Whites will choose to continue living in a multi-racial society. That's all right. Call it exercising our freedom of association with our own. There can be no so-called 'White supremacy' when we are not in the same space as non-Whites.

ABC quoted me accurately, all right, but used only the first dozen words from that quote, as you can see in the screenshot reproduced here.

ABC's prime time Internet show was, as expected, extremely biased against our organization and its founder, William Pierce, just as I told the mealy-mouthed Jew it would be. I had also told him that the show would go to Jewish hate groups, the ADL and the SPLC, for their purported expertise on Fellow thought criminals: Dr. Duke and Chairman Williams.

"Homegrown Hate," which it did. ABC also gave a platform to comments from "hate experts" at "our" Federal Bureau of Investigation and Department of Homeland Security, who dutifully parroted the nonsense that "White supremacists" are the biggest threat to Americans today. The only White Americans who would believe that haven't gotten out of the house much this year, or they just believe that the White race is not worth preserving. Forget them. We will build our Alliance with those responsible White men and women who agree with us that our race is worth preserving and will join with us in the fight to see that our kind not only is preserved but prospers — whatever it takes. Those interested in the ABC smear can watch it on YouTube.

This month I was invited by long time pro-White advocate and former State Representative Dr. David Duke to appear on his daily radio show.

Dr. Duke earned his PhD in history from the largest private university in Ukraine in 2005. His doctoral thesis was titled "Zionism as a Form of Ethnic Supremacism."

I've known David since the mid-1980s but had never listened to his show. (I don't participate in social media, though I encourage our members to promote the National Alliance on them, and I generally don't listen to Internet radio shows, though I've been interviewed on a few.)

David called me 20 minutes before going on the air, live, just as I was just stepping into the shower, but as a favor to him I accepted. He did most of the talking but I got in a few words here and there and managed to mention our Alliance's Web sites. He chuckled when I told him that, "unlike Donald Trump, I do not disavow David Duke." Kevin Strom took that hour-long discussion between us on 14 October and made two American Dissident Voices broadcasts from it that aired on the 17th and the 24th. You can listen to those shows here:

Some members told us on their Membership Surveys that they're willing to come to the National Office and help us with projects. This note is a call for those with construction skills who can break away for a few days to come help us with the warehouse building that we will work on this month and through the winter. Form-work for the concrete slab is stage one, then masonry, carpentry, electrical, etc. — and general laborers are also needed. Write to
